

Challenge

You start with a new team.

They tell you how they hate agile, because they tried Scrum once and found that it was a waste of time. Just more meetings, less productive work. They say everything is going fine.

At the same time you notice, that the quality of the shipped increment isn't great, people aren't reviewing code before it is shipped and half of the sprint consists of bugs.

How would you handle that scenario?

Please send your answer to applytoagile@trustedshops.de

We are very looking forward to your application.